MORNING SESSION
S. S. CONVENTION
Secretary Whaley Presented Anderson's Welcome
The 37th annual convention of the South Carolina Sunday School association was formally opened Wednesday morning in the First Baptist church of this city.
There are threatening clouds of calamity overhanging our commonwealth, but through the rifts in those clouds there shines the bright light of Christian fellowship, embodied in this gathering of devoted men and women who are laboring in the name of the noble purpose of teaching and training all ages of citizenship in the great principles of holy Christianity.
The song services under the leadership of Messrs. Harold C. Lowden of Philadelphia, vocal, and A. W. Roper, pianist.
Dr. S. T. Latham, Spartanburg, conducted the devotional exercises following which addresses of welcome were delivered by Mrs. Foster A. Whaley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Anderson, and Dr. J. E. Vines of the northern church. Mr. Whaley gave full assurance of cordial welcome, availing that Anderson rejoiced to have these representatives of Sunday school work meet within her borders and gloried in the fact that fully 70 per cent of her citizenship is identified with the various churches of the city.
Mr. Whaley elected applause when he stated that in entertaining the State Convention of the United Confederate Veterans, Anderson would not officially give them any strong drink. The convention also applauded Mr. Whaley's sentiments with reference to Anderson's development and her spirit of true hospitality.

Dr. Vines spoke vigorously concerning the great meaning of interdenominational union in this line of Christian effort. The purpose is to magnify the points of agreement between the various branches of the church. Enthusiasm and co-operation are the chief elements manifested by such an assembly. Dr. Vines hammered Gov. Blease and the present condition of the State's politics. "Is this out of place," he asked, and many voices responded "No, no." He declared that the convention should go out from here determined to do everything possible for the uplift of the State in all matters.

Mr. J. P. McNeill of Florence, made a graceful and elegant acceptance of the hospitality of the city. He complimented Anderson and this great piedmont section. He turned a joke neatly on Mr. Whaley by declaring that whereas the city of Anderson would serve no drink to the veterans, Mr. Whaley had told the visitors that if they wanted anything to call on the Chamber of Commerce.

Rev. Walter I. Herbert, Sumter, as president of the association, then set forth the development and purpose of International Sunday school work. This is succinctly announced in three terms each full of potent meaning: Organization, education, evangelization. The first, the implement, the second, the skillful use of the implement; the third, the eternal result of this skillful usage of an efficient implement. No one can count the cost in money, in love, in self-sacrificing labor. Make a bargain with God that by His help you will win the last boy or girl in your class for the service of the Master.

Rev. W. H. E. Pendleton, "Mile Stone Thirty-Seven" formed the theme of Rev. W. H. K. Pendleton, chairman executive committee, Spartanburg. Dr. Pendleton rendered grateful thanks to God for His guidance and His grace which have been supported during the pasting of the year. He paid high tribute to his predecessor, Prof. Thos. W. Kelt.

Twenty-eight county conventions have been held. Eight organized counties have not held conventions, probably because of the early date of this convention.

There are ten "banner" counties and two "iron line" counties. County and township or district officers were urged to all diligences to perfect and extend the work over which they have jurisdiction. Every Sunday school should have a "Cradle Roll." This infant's hand may be brought to the church.

Each of the departments—elementary, secondary, and adult—shows a marked improvement during the year now closing. At "high noon" the convention was called from "labor to refreshment" by having 10 minutes of music. Mr. Roper rendered a beautiful transcription of the Portuguese hymn with accompaniment of strings, which he himself had arranged. The convention then stood and sang the words "How Firm a Foundation, ye Saints of the Lord."

Dr. William J. Williamson, pastor Third Baptist church, St. Louis, Mo., led the meditations of the convention in a "Half Hour with the Word." During the three mornings of the week, he will lead in the study of the Philippian epistle. St. Paul describes himself as a "bond slave of the Lord Jesus." That is the limit of self-education. The prayers of the people are windows through which we catch glimpses of his soul. The prayer-life of the people is at an alarming low ebb. It was no labor for Paul to pray. It was a joyous experience.

He loved his people deeply and tenderly. He was proud against discouragement. So also must the Sunday school teacher tenderly and strongly love every pupil in his class. As a teacher will never cease effort to reach all and minister to every need. Paul says that he would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord.

Paul says that he would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord.

Paul says that he would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord.

Paul says that he would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord.

Paul says that he would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord.

Paul says that he would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord. He would have been "glad to die" for the Lord.
